II. Read the two paragraphs below. What is the message? What do you think about that?

MARK, 15

I've always wanted a job that involves helping people. I used to want to join the police force, but now I want to be a lawyer. Some people think I'll make it and others say "ha ha, I don't think so". But whatever you choose, it should be something you really like doing. It's your choice, so choose wisely. My parents are divorced but they both believe in me the way that parents should.

CARLY, 14

I want to be a teacher as I like children and like being able to help them with their work. I think my parents would be fairly happy with this. Your parents always tell you what's a good career and what's not; they always pressurise you about how good jobs have good pay. But I think that if you like a job and it suits you, you should stick to it and not be influenced by others.
