

LJUBLJANA

European Day of Languages Festival. Our journalist team went to Ljubljana to experience new languages.

FESTIVAL

European Day of Languages International holiday: It is time to learn something about the languages of our Member states.

24facts

There are 6912 languages in the world and 516 are nearly extinct. Many of them use different writings and techniques of speaking...and yet, we have the ability to communicate! V.Z.

European Day of Languages. Languages open doors!

Hello!... Wie gehts!... Come sta!... Hi!... Bon jour!... Ohoya!... Choose your language

MATEVŽ KUHELJ

Ljubljana. On the 27th September 2010, at 9.35 a.m., students from Josip Jurčič high school went to Ljubljana to see the Language festival. There were many stalls and every one of them represented a different country and their language. There we talked with each language representative and experienced that learning languages is more fun than we actually thought.

Our group consisted of 4 people. We were walking around the bazaar and stopped at every stall for a while. We met James and Vicky from Great Britain and talked about the Premier League (football league in Great Britain). It was a pleasant conversation and James told us: «Oh, you know everything about Premier League» and we all agreed we don't like Manchester United. One of the most interesting languages for us is absolutely Bol-

Oh, you know everything about Premier League.

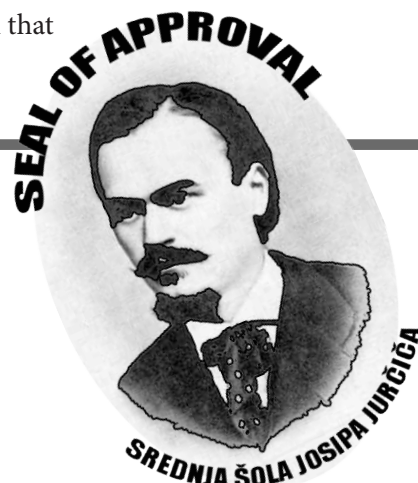

James from Great Britain.

garian, because many words in Bulgarian means something completely different, if not opposite in Slovene. For example: »Ne« in Slovene means no, but in Bulgarian mean yes.

All in all that was the greatest experience for us. We didn't just walked around and looked at the stalls, we have also met some new people and in my opinion this is the most important.

Photographers: Viktor Zupančič & Aljoša Baša
Reporter: Matevž Kuhelj
Editor: Mario Štefe
Published by: Srednja šola Josipa Jurčiča