

Me

My name is Klavdija. I'm fourteen years old and I live in Radovljica. Radovljica is a small town in north-west of Slovenia, near the Sava river and the Alps.

About where I live

The population of the town is about 6,000. Many tourists come to Radovljica, because it is a beautiful and small, old town. It is the hometown of historian and dramatist Anton Tomaž Linhart.

Like in most towns, you can see the old part (Linhartov trg) and the modern part. I live in the modern part. We usually walk or drive with cars. We have buses, and also a train station.

In summer, it can be very hot, but in winter it can be extremely cold.

It is a very friendly town and it is quite quiet. I like that.

[Radovljica]

[The old part of the town]

In my neighbourhood

In my neighbourhood, there aren't a lot of shops and offices. It is a quiet neighbourhood, where there are mainly houses. But the centre of the town is just five minutes away, so I can be there really quickly.

I live in a house, surrounded by other houses, so the noise of the main road doesn't come to us. My house is neither huge nor small. It is just the right size and very comfortable.

There is a park quite near and I often go there with my friends. Families here usually have two or three children.